Faces

Now let's draw some shapes but give them faces by drawing two dots and a curved line in between. Start with the shape and then add the face.

Practice

Let's take what we have practiced so far and have some fun! Draw some shapes of your own and add faces to them. Play around and see how many different shapes and faces you can come up with.

Basic Shapes

We are now ready to get a little bit more deliberate with our shapes.
There are three major shapes that we will be using, the box, circle and triangle.
Let's practice these shapes until we are comfortable with using them.

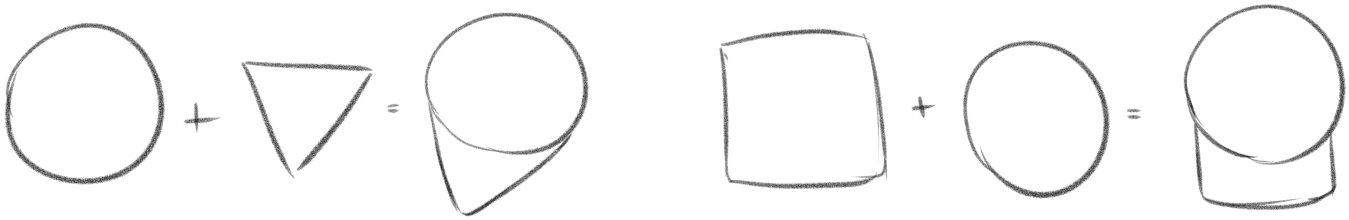
Construction

To help us draw slightly more complex shapes we can combine the basic shapes we used earlier. We do this by overlapping the shapes and erasing away parts that we don't need. This makes it much easier to simplify shapes that may seem complicated on the surface.



Copy from the examples below and dont be shy about using an eraser!

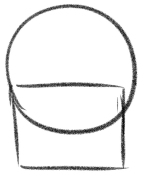
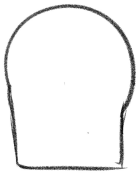
Face Construction

Let's now use our construction method to draw more complex faces.

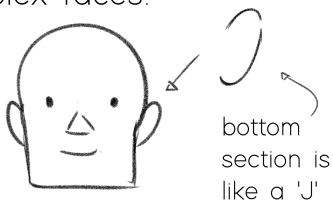


Step 1. Draw the Major shapes



Step 2. Erase the overlap to create one cleans shape

Step 3. Draw in the face



Step 3. Add ovals for the ears

*Note: Not all shapes need to be constructed using the major shapes, if you are able to draw the outline without construction that is completely fine. Construction is only a helpful tool that can help you when you need to simplify something.

Copy from the examples below using the steps above, keep an eraser handy because this will be a little challenging but you will be able to do it with a bit of practice!

Neck

Now we can use a box to add in the neck to our cute little portraits. With this step you have officially gone from drawing basic shapes to drawing simple faces. This is proof that you can now draw!
